- Wrocław: 640,000 + 150,000 students
- Wrocław Agglomeration: approx. 1 million people
- Lower Silesia: approx. 3 million people

Wrocław attracts tourists like a magnet with its location, mild climate, interesting historical sites and hospitable citizens. It lies in the middle of the Silesian Lowlands, where the Odra River branches out to form 12 islands of varying size. As the largest city of Lower Silesia, Wrocław is the region's administrative, economic and cultural capital.

Standing on twelve islands on the Oder river and its four tributaries, it is often called the Venice of the North. It is a city with a thousand years of history: it passed from the hands of Czech kings under the rule of Austria, and then Prussia; finally, after the Second World War, it became a part of Poland. Today, the heritage of the past intertwines with modernity.

As a city open to new ideas and challenges, Wrocław has gained a reputation as dynamic and innovative. It boasts a broad cultural and entertainment offer, and it is considered to be one of the most business-friendly cities to boot. Its atmosphere attracts people from all around the country and the world. It is the visitors who say Wrocław is the place that must be seen first and foremost when coming to Poland. The most interesting historical buildings, artwork and museums can be found in the Old Town and its environs.

They can be visited on foot, and many hotels and most restaurants and shops are within walking distance of the Old Town as well. Wrocław is an extensive city, so you should buy a city map or use a PTTK guide; please inquire at the Tourist Information Centre at 14 Market Square (Rynek 14). Cruises on the Odra River, with a great panoramic view of the city along Ostrow Tumski, are organized in summer. You can also enjoy a ride on the historical Hansel & Gretel tramway and on the open top bus, Fredruś.
