INTRODUCTION

Our gymnasts present an important sporting image to the world. This image clearly reflects on our brand. The clothing and accessories they wear is a large part of that and requires some structure and regulation. The following authorities have collaborated for this document:

- Technical Committees of all disciplines
- The Media and Communication Commission

The rules are set for each cycle and approved by the Executive Committee of the FIG.

These rules are intended to provide the national federations with the ability to regulate their team uniforms, to give visibility to their country, and to promote their sponsors. The requirements are established for all disciplines, to ensure the sport is presented in the best possible manner and the participants are not over commercialised. At every FIG event (Junior, Senior or Age Group) there will be control of these rules and any infringements will be penalised accordingly.

Uniforms for FIG competitions must follow the rules set out in the Olympic Charter and the principles set out in the FIG Code of Ethics. These documents indicate that clothing designs are expected to be in good taste, aesthetically pleasing and compatible as a sport uniform and not a costume. Details are provided in the Code of Points for each discipline.

Only the national identity, bib numbers and advertising, in accordance with these rules, may appear on the uniform.

The uniform design may not include any political slogans or signs, motivational words or logos. Designs depicting war, violence, trendy logos, sexual or religious themes are forbidden and will receive penalties according to the Code of Points.

These rules apply to all participants in competitions for all gymnastic disciplines, and are also binding for support personnel and coaches. Restrictions for clothing worn by gymnasts on the competitive floor, in the Field of Play, may carry with them penalties for any infractions. These infractions are decided by the Technical Committee of each discipline and are listed in the Code of Points.

A complete summary chart of clothing which is allowed, optional, restricted or forbidden is included as Appendix A for gymnasts and Appendix B for coaches and support personnel.

SECTION 1            DEFINITIONS

1a.    Field of Play

Items allowed are listed on the chart attached. See Appendix A & B. Special note must be taken of the accessories and items allowed only for competition.

1b.    Competition area and training halls

Items allowed are listed on the attached chart. Special note must be taken of restrictions.

1c.    Coaches and support personnel

Most teams outfit their entire group with similar clothing and accessories. Allowable items are listed on the chart attached as Appendix B.

1d.    Age Group modifications

For younger and smaller gymnasts in the Age Group competitions the size of the advertising may be reduced. This option may be decided by the federation but must be the same for all age groups.

Youngest age category – may be reduced by 15 sq. cm.

Older age category – may be reduced by 10 sq. cm.

All other rules are the same for Age Group Competitions for all disciplines.

1e.    National identification

All competitors must wear an identification of their country. This may be in the form of a flag, the country name abbreviated, the national emblem or crest if the country has one, or its coat of arms. The national identification may be in the total design of the clothing but must be clearly identifiable and aesthetic.

1f.    Advertising

The advertising is either the written out word name, the logogram / acronym, or the logo of the product or the enterprise which its symbols or trademark specifically designate.

1g.    Manufacturer's logo

This identification is of the manufacturer of the clothing item. It must clearly reflect the brand and can be the registered trademark used in retail sales.

1h.    Competition numbers - Bibs

The bibs are the property of FIG and are awarded by contract to FIG sponsors. Details are outlined in the work plan for their distribution and use.

1i.    Sponsorship of accessories

From time to time, Organising Committees (OC) secure sponsorship of accessories, which are distributed to gymnasts and others at the event and may be taken onto the Field of Play. In such cases these items must be distributed free of charge and all instructions for use and display may be clearly outlined in the official work plan for the event. Examples are water bottles, towels, small mascots etc. Participants receiving these accessories may use them in the Field of Play and not their own items. If there is a conflict of brand in any category, the OC has the right to cover or tape over the conflicting brand.

SECTION 7            COMPETITION NUMBERS – BIBS

Competition numbers

- 7a. The competition numbers (bibs) are the property of the FIG. The advertising on the competition numbers is awarded in the contract to a FIG sponsor. Because of this, it is possible that the advertising on the front of the competitor is in opposition to the advertising on the competition number.

All competitors, in Artistic Gymnastics are obliged to wear the competition number. The federations will be requested to make inquiries to the FIG concerning its official advertising partner and thereafter to advise their national advertising partners at least two weeks before the competition.

Bibs are obligatory for Artistic Gymnastics and only allowed in other disciplines with the permission of the TC responsible.

Organisers may request FIG for approval to include their own sponsors on the bibs in Artistic Gymnastics competitions. For other disciplines, to wear bibs with advertising, the OC must first get approval from the TC of the discipline. If safety allows it, then the OC requires approval by FIG according to the sponsorship rights.

Bibs must ONLY be worn on the back.

- 7b. The following rules are valid for the dimensions and the advertising on the competition numbers:

The size for the competition numbers:

- Male gymnasts:                    200 mm x 200 mm
- Female gymnasts:                160 mm x 160 mm

- 7c. The advertising must appear under the competition number.

The advertising on the competition numbers, for both male and female gymnasts, may have the following dimensions:

- Height: 60 mm
- Width: 160 mm, or may not exceed the maximum of 100 sq. cm.

- 7d. The height of the numerals:

- Male gymnasts: 110 mm
- Female gymnasts: 95 mm

- 7e. The background of the competition number should be white and offer a large enough area for the number and the advertising. The numerals should be black. If stretch material or adhesive fabric is used, the size must comply with the dimension before stretching.

- 7f. Other backgrounds and printing colours require the consent of the FIG.

Refer to Appendix G: Samples of bib numbers

SECTION 8            GENERAL

Advertising of the organisers

In general, the advertising of products on apparel and equipment of the competitors, teams, coaches or officials which represents direct product identification is prohibited, except with permission on the bibs. See Section 7.

The FIG is authorised to take suitable measures in the case of any infractions against this rule.

Procedure for approval

Federations that wish to have advertising on the competition apparel of their gymnasts and coaches must know the FIG rules and abide by them. In addition, they will receive information with the FIG directives from the secretariat. If a federation is not certain of the rules or wishes to have new placements or designs approved, then these forms must be returned to the FIG Office according to the deadlines established in the directives or the work plan. For any clarifications required prior to the FIG event, contact the FIG Office.

Refer to Appendices E and F: Approval form - Men and Women

Verification of the advertising and national identification on the competition attire

Based on the directives or work plan, the FIG verifies the advertising on the competition attire prior to and during the competition. Random controls will be conducted during podium training and competitions. Penalties and sanctions can be applied according to the rules during the controls made at the competition.

Sanctions

If the advertising on a gymnast's competition apparel does not correspond to the rules, and when requested by the responsible body, the President of the Superior Jury may impose penalties according to the Code of Points.

If a federation refuses to comply with any of these requirements, participation or continuing in the competition could be jeopardised.

Any changes (not approved) or exchanges in the advertising on the competition apparel which take place during the competition could result in the expulsion of the individual gymnast, the team, or the group from that phase of the competition.

If a gymnast does not display the national identification as required, and when requested by the responsible body, the President of the Superior Jury may impose penalties according to the Code of Points.

Guidelines for the Olympic Games

At the Olympic Games the NOC of each country is responsible for the clothing and accessories of the competitors. Specific guidelines are developed by the IOC and circulated well in advance of the Games to all NOC's. These are supreme to any federation rules during the Games. If the IOC guidelines are silent or vague then the federation rules will apply. Any deductions listed in the Code of Points will also apply at the Olympic Games.

Refer to Appendix I: IOC guidelines regarding authorised identifications

This Rules for competition clothing and advertising 2017-2020 have been updated by the Executive Committee at its meeting in July 2018 in Pacific Harbour (FIJ) and enters into effect 1st August 2018.
